

Research in Washington D.C.

Learn how to research in our nation's capitol from home in your jammies! We will discuss the many resources of the Library of Congress, the National Archives, and the DAR Library that are available online, often for free. If you are joining the WVGS annual research trip, this class will help you focus and plan your time there more effectively. Even if you can't travel to Washington in person, you can still advance your research from home or the WVGS Library.
